DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the restriction requirement of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the restriction requirement of that action is withdrawn.

Priority

2. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

3. Acknowledgement is made of receipt of Information Disclosure Statement(s) (PTO-1449) filed 2/4/04. An initialed copy is attached to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-4, 7-10, 13-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nagata et al. (2003/0076766 A1).

Regarding claims 1 and 15, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus comprising: a first beam splitter mount (21) and a second beam splitter mount (22), the first beam splitter mount (21) being coupled to the second beam splitter mount (22) by a deformable connection (figures 6C and 6D) the beam splitter apparatus being arranged so that, in use, a force applied to the second beam splitter mount (22) causes the second beam splitter mount (22) to turn relative to the first beam splitter mount (21) (section 0128).

Regarding claim 2, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, wherein the second beam splitter mount (22) is arranged to turn relative to the first beam splitter mount (21) in response to flexing of the deformable connection (section 0128).

Regarding claims 3, 4, 9, 10, 16, and 17, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, wherein the second beam splitter mount (22) is arranged to turn relative to the first beam splitter mount (21) through an angle of ten degrees or less (section 0128).

Regarding claims 7, 8, 13, and 14, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, wherein the beam splitter apparatus further comprises a first beam splitter mounted in the first beam splitter mount (21) and a second beam splitter mounted in the second beam splitter mount (22) (section 0128), the beam splitter apparatus, in use, being arranged such that the first beam splitter (beam splitter mounted on mount 21) and the second beam splitter (beam splitter mounted on mount 22) receive optical energy emitted by an optical source (sections 0128-0130).

Regarding claims 18-20, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, wherein the beam splitter deflects another portion of the beam incident on it and is not incident on the beam deflector, further comprising indicating powering the beam incident on the splitter by measuring power in the beam deflected by the splitter (sections 0128-0130 and 0239).

Regarding claim 21, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, wherein the deflector is a second beam splitter (mounted on beam splitter mount (22) (section 0128).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 5, 6, 11, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nagata et al. (2003/0076766 A1).

Regarding claims 5 and 11, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, but does not specifically disclose wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises a material having a coefficient of thermal expansion of 8ppm/K or less. It would have been obvious to modify the invention to include wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises a material having a coefficient of thermal expansion of 8ppm/K or less, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use (In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416). Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention to include wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises a material having a coefficient of thermal expansion of 8ppm/K or less for the purpose of maintaining the length of the beam splitter apparatus with regard to temperature.

Art Unit: 2873

Regarding claims 6 and 12, Nagata et al. discloses, in figures 6A-6E, a beam splitter apparatus, but does not specifically disclose wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises Kovar. It would have been obvious to modify the invention to include wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises Kovar, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use (In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416). Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the invention to include wherein the beam splitter apparatus comprises Kovar for the purpose of its ability to be compatible with thermal expansion of a structure.
